MESSAGE

I am happy to know about the release of 21st Annual Report of National Institute of Electronics and Information Technology (NIELIT) together with the Audited Statement of Accounts and Auditor's Report for the year 2015-16.

To leverage the full potential of JAM – Jan Dhan, Aadhar and Mobile, which serves as a bedrock of many initiatives, India would need to address barriers such as digital literacy among masses. Thus, the role of NIELIT in taking forward digital literacy initiatives assumes greater significance.

Technology can play an important role to meet the aspiration of millions in India. It is constantly evolving and traditional know-how is being replaced with futuristic technologies. In this context, the Government has laid emphasis to leverage the potential of technology through the 'Digital India' programme and has ushered a multitude of schemes to ensure maximum technology penetration among masses.

In tune with the changing times, NIELIT has diversified and spread its wing by expanding its repertoire of activities and by upgrading its student support services through process re-engineering and online applications reinforced with digitally signed e-Certificates linked with Digital Locker and similar facilities. Such proactive measures are the need of the time and I expect NIELIT to introduce such features with the required sensitivity and vibrancy.

Today, NIELIT is uniquely positioned in terms of its outreach to all corners of the country. The Government of India is providing a major fillip for skill development and creation of self-employment opportunities for job-seeking rural youth, and therefore there is a need for creation of synergy and best practices amongst all institutions that are actively supporting the cause of rural women and youth and encouraging entrepreneurs and individuals to acquire necessary skills. I would urge NIELIT to further augment its capabilities for making rural youth employable through state-of-the-art training programs in IT and Electronics.

I wish the NIELIT organization greater success in its endeavours.

MESSAGE

The world is witnessing a digital revolution in making. The government has taken an important initiative 'Digital India' to harness the potential of this enabling revolution to take the nation on the path of economic and social wellbeing and empowerment of its people. The capable and qualified human capital is propelling the nation to evolve as a knowledge-based economy at a faster pace.

In this context, a greater need is felt to leverage our "demographic dividend" and further develop and empower the human capital to realize the potential and enabling opportunities of this digital revolution. NIELIT has been playing an important role of capacity building in EICT domain for over two decades.

The innovative steps that NIELIT has taken in the recent past for promotion of digital literacy in the country are indeed commendable. It is praiseworthy to note that NIELIT has expanded its basket of digital literacy courses, and the organization has walked an extra mile to ensure that the learning contents are made accessible in the online mode in various vernacular languages. I am also happy to learn that digital literacy courses such as CCC and BCC are gaining popularity due to basic concepts and proficiency imparted to the students and many State Governments have accorded recognition to their courses for recruitment of workforce.

The efforts made by NIELIT to further enhance these courses by incorporating a module on a financial inclusion is also noteworthy. This is significant as computer literacy would help achieving, at a faster pace, the objective of Pradhan Mantri Jan-Dhan Yojana (PMJDY) that ensures universal access to various financial services such as availability of basic savings bank account, access to need based credit, remittance facility, insurance to all sections of population, and pension to the weaker sections and low income groups. This deep proliferation of digital literacy at affordable cost is possible only with the effective use of technology.

Over the past two decades, technology has become increasingly important to the nation's economic competitiveness, to promoting innovation, and to our collective well-being. As the Internet continues to increasingly proliferate in all aspects of our lives, there are new paradigms that are required to be learned and mastered. Thus, keeping pace with changing technology is vital. In a disruptive world, workforces must be built to continuously learn, adopt, adapt and embrace new business strategies and skill sets.

The definite step that NIELIT has taken to build capacities in niche technology areas, such as IoT, Cyber Security, Cloud Computing, and Big Data Analytics is the need of the hour, and I congratulate NIELIT for the same. Hope NIELIT would continue to take great strides in the area of skill development and capacity building in EICT space. I wish NIELIT the best in its future endeavors.

Jai Hind!

MESSAGE

A decisive government at the centre is reaching out to the masses with substantive efforts being made to benefit the rural populace, and to take forward the India's growth story through innovative schemes such as Make-In-India, Skill India and Digital India. With Digital India, India has taken a no. of steps to usher a digital revolution, which is the backbone for economic, technological and social prosperity.

Digital India encompasses several dimensions & is aimed at making services accessible & affordable to all Indians. The Ministry of Electronics and Information Technology (MeitY) has taken many landmark initiatives. Through the Digital Locker application along with e-Sign, any citizen can log into these applications with their Aadhaar number and manage all key documents with ease and efficiency. Similarly, eHospital means no more wasting time standing in hospital lines. Instead, there is online registration for appointment, online payment and online reports. The National Scholarship Portal also brings together all scholarship schemes under a single application form. To accelerate the delivery of cloud-based services, MeitY has also launched the MeghRaj Cloud initiative.

NIELIT – the HRD arm of MeitY, has been proactively making efforts to develop capacity among youth, as the real strength of these innovative initiatives will come when they are extensively used. I am happy to note that the NIELIT has rendered a significant role in promotion of technology through skill development and capacity building initiatives.

In rural India, people often don't have easy access to public services and critical information. Some of them live in remote and distant locations which are often impacted by geographical, cultural and linguistic barriers. The need for quality educational services in IECT, specifically in the non formal space is being addressed by NIELIT. Today NIELIT has spread its wings in remote locations, and also has 18 offices in north east India, with over 35 offices in India.

Digital connectivity is a great leveller. Cutting across demographic and socio-economic segments, Indians are increasingly connecting and communicating with each other through mobile phones and computers riding on digital networks. Digital literacy assumes paramount importance at an individual level for truly and fully leveraging the potential of the Digital India programme. It provides citizens with the ability to exploit the digital technologies to empower themselves. It helps them seek better livelihood opportunities and become economically secure. The expertise that NIELIT has developed to take forward digital literacy initiatives through a holistic and online system of assessments supported by e-Contents and issuance of digital certificates linked with digital locker is truly commendable.

I would like to compliment NIELIT for their efforts in taking skill development initiatives to every nook and corner of the country through synergy and sharing of best practices. I am confident that NIELIT would achieve many more milestones in the years to come.

MESSAGE

The education system in this country is undergoing a paradigm shift to improve upon the employability factor. With the launch of the 'Digital India' initiative by the Government of India, skill development and capacity building has assumed greater significance. This campaign is based on three fundamental pillars – to create digital architecture as a utility for citizens of India; to ensure digital delivery of services; and to digitally empower the citizens of India.

The National Institute of Electronics and Information Technology (NIELIT), a body under the administrative control of the Ministry of Electronics and Information Technology (MeitY), Government of India, is today uniquely positioned in terms of its outreach to all corners of the country and all segments of the society. NIELIT is a professional examination body in India, which also accredits training programs in IT and Electronics, specializing in the non-formal sector of education and training. It is actively engaged in the development of qualified human resources in the areas of IT, electronics, communication technologies, hardware, cyber law, cyber security, IPR, GIS, cloud computing, ESDM, e-Governance and related verticals. This gives the Institute a distinct identity and character in the panorama of Skill Development and Capacity Building in India. Many Government Departments have entrusted NIELIT for recruitment of technical manpower, as third-party agency which not only ensures transparency but the technical expertise available with NIELIT is also being used to create synergy with other organization.

NIELIT has made efforts to establish standards in the areas of IECT and has developed market oriented courses in the emerging areas as per needs of the IT and the electronic industry. Besides, NIELIT is also a preferred agency for rolling out capacity building initiatives of State Governments and Central Ministries.

Subsequent to the merger of erstwhile CEDTIs (at Aizawl, Aurangabad, Calicut, Gorakhpur, Imphal, Jammu/ Srinagar and Guwahati/Tezpur) and RCCs (at Chandigarh and Kolkata) with DOEACC, this mega institution was rechristened as NIELIT in October, 2011. The merger had necessitated process re-engineering and standardization efforts so as to amalgamate the various units and promote best practices, as a merged single cohesive unit catering to the needs of stakeholders on PAN India basis.

With emphasis on a strong Online presence, NIELIT in the recent times has embraced technology to facilitate stakeholders, particularly students, through portals that provide end-to-end solutions, including Registration to Courses – e-Learning – Online Examinations – Digital Certificates, supported by automatic SMS, e-Mail and Aadhaar enabled Direct Benefit Transfer (DBT) scheme. The process is also being reinforced with 'digital locker' technology.

In our endeavor to promote greater transparency and accountability through increased use of technology and Online services, I am confident that with a growing network of 35 own Centres, 900+ Accredited Training Partners and about 8000 + Facilitation Centres, the high growth achieved in the recent times would be further improved to project NIELIT as a national institute, which has the expertise to support the Government of India's vision of 'Skill India' and 'Make in India' leading to 'Digital India'.

DIGITAL INDIA

The Government has embarked on the ambitious 'Digital India' program, which is based on three fundamental pillars – to create digital architecture as a utility for citizens of India; to ensure digital delivery of services; and to digitally empower the citizens of India. Digital empowerment refers to digital literacy and essentially means that people, who may not be literate, are trained to handle digital devices so as to take advantage of e-Governance and digital services and make a meaningful transformation in their livelihood. The digital revolution has begun in the country with NIELIT with its growing network of centres, including private training partners in the PPP framework, is suitably poised to take forward the National Digital Literacy Mission (also known as DISHA) that aims to bridge the digital divide. By minimizing the digital divide through skill development and by providing basic digital literacy at the click of a button, NIELIT aims for more industry courses for creating jobs for the youth, especially in rural areas.

Keeping pace with changing technology, NIELIT is making concerted efforts to take forward skill development and capacity building initiatives, specially in emerging areas such as IoT, e-Waste, Cloud Computing and Cyber Security etc. NIELIT has been awarded a project by MeitY for Capacity Building of Government Officials through training programmes in e-Waste Management under 'Digital India'. Under the project 4330 Central/State Government officials covering 29 states will be trained by NIELIT. In order to implement the project in an effective and professional manner, NIELIT has also signed MoU with MAIT(Manufacturer Association of Information Technology). NIELIT has also signed a non exclusive MoU with Amazon Internet Services Pvt.Ltd (AISPL). Under this MoU, AISPL will provide free access to more than 50 services like Database Services, e-Mail services, Virtual Private Connection services, Big Data services, Media services to NIELIT students and trainers/educators for achieving cloud education goals (as per Industrial standards and requirements) which enables students and trainers to get hands-on experience in creating Virtual Machines, installation of Application Software and their management in a live environment.

Under the 'Digital India' Programme of Govt. of India, NIELIT has signed an Agreement with National e-Governance Division (NeGD) to train 16000 Government employees of all the North-Eastern States in 2 years. This is a project of MeitY, Govt. of India under a special scheme "Preparing North-East for Digital India". Under this Programme 10000 nos. of Government officials will be trained in NIELIT's Digital Literacy Course CCC and 6000 officials will be trained in CCC+.

EMPOWERING 'RURAL INDIA'

Under Pradhan Mantri Sansad Adarsh Gram Yojana (PM-SAGY) for developing model villages Shri Ravi Shankar Prasad, Hon'ble Minister E&IT and Law & Justice, Govt. of India has adopted Ahlawalpur village, Fatua block of Patna District, Bihar. NIELIT has set up a Computer Saksharta Kendra in Ahlawalpur village which was inaugurated by Shri Ravi Shankar Prasad on 18th May 2015. Since then NIELIT has been conducting various Skill Development Programs at the Computer Saksharta Kendra in order to digitally empower the local residence, especially adolescents, girls and women in the area. To provide a thrust to these initiatives, NIELIT Patna has collaborated with NIIT Foundation and Intel. As a part of this collaboration, a skill development programme "Intel Easy Steps" was conducted for skilling 200 local residents of Ahlawalpur comprising of above, 150 females and 50 male residents.

e-GOVERNANCE

NIELIT is issuing digitally signed certificate to the NDLM candidates in the Online mode, which bears a QR code, so that the online certificates can also be verified in the Online mode.
